Congratulations, Linda Mead, on National Conservation Award

Delaware & Raritan Greenway's Executive Director, Linda J. Mead, received the prestigious International Paper Conservation Partnership Award for 2002 on June 25 in Washington, D.C. at a special luncheon at the National Press Club. The award, now in its fourteenth year, is presented by The Conservation Fund and is accompanied by an unrestricted grant of $10,000.

In announcing the award, Lawrence Selzer, President of The Conservation Fund, wrote to Linda, "The award demonstrates the positive value of cooperation, rather than confrontation, in protecting habitat and open space. In making their decision, the judges felt that through your vision, leadership and dedication you showed how much can be accomplished through partnerships and collaboration."

Noting the more than 100 nominations received from across the country, Mr. Selzer added that, "You were chosen in recognition of your innovative leadership and for forming partnerships with business, public agencies, residents, government and conservation organizations."

Dennis Davidson, Deputy Administrator of New Jersey's Green Acres Program, was one of many in New Jersey to recommend Linda for the award. He said, "D&R Greenway has become a critical partner in reaching the State's ambitious open space goals in New Jersey. They know how to get things done, with their success rate growing to the highest level in the State. (The Green Acres Program) will continue to support D&R Greenway in protection of the qualities that make New Jersey a special place to live."

New Jersey Congressman Rush Holt wrote, "Linda recognizes that successful conservation depends on developing partnerships involving many parties who are broadly representative of the community. Her partnership with Bristol-Myers Squibb in preserving the 186-acre Carson Road Woods property in Lawrence Township and her close working relationship with UBS Paine Webber in advising landowners about the estate planning possibilities that accrue from donations of property both exemplify the sound principle of partnership development."

As a direct result of Linda's achievement over the past several years of partnership and cooperation for land preservation, the New Jersey Green Acres Program announced that a recent review of land trusts across the state reveals D&R Greenway to be at the top of the list in successfully completing transactions with Green Acres money to achieve land preservation results. D&R Greenway has been granted more state funding for land preservation than any other organization in New Jersey.

This national award is especially significant in that it recognizes Linda's and D&R Greenway's land preservation efforts in one of the most densely populated regions in the country, where high land values make land preservation challenging. Linda's award focuses national attention on an area of New Jersey that is critical to the state's preservation efforts, where green belts are an integral part of local communities in which people live and work.

At the National Press Club luncheon in Washington D.C., Linda lauded the staunch support of the board of D&R Greenway as well as her hard working, professional, and experienced staff as integral to her own success. The staff was on hand to see her receive the award along with Board Chair Chuck Hartman, Princeton Township Mayor Phyllis Marchand, Board Advisor John Harper, and D&R Greenway Strategy Committee member Wade Martin. Friends and family were also there to applaud her well-deserved award.

In recognition of D&R Greenway's role in preserving land critical to The Crossroads of The American Revolution and central New Jersey's place in our revolutionary heritage, the staff saluted Linda with three "hip, hip, huzzahs" and tossed D&R Greenway hats into the air. A great time was had by all.

On June 26, over eighty Princeton area supporters, municipal and county representatives, State of New Jersey Green Acres employees, and a myriad of reporters braved the heat to celebrate Linda's award on the grounds of Greenway Meadows, in front of the 100-year-old barn acquired when the property was saved for preservation in 2001.

In her remarks, Linda indicated that the barn will become the permanent home for D&R Greenway once funds are raised for its renovation. As a salute to the success of partnerships and cooperation, she remarked "... the barn will be a vital center for land preservation, a place where local communities and grassroots groups can accomplish collaborative preservation initiatives. This barn represents how far D&R Greenway has come over the past decade. It stands as a symbol of partnerships and cooperation represented by preservation of Coventry Farm, Carson Road Woods, and Greenway Meadows. Without D&R Greenway's preservation efforts, the barn itself would have been torn down to make way for residential development on this property."

In recognition of the urgency to preserve land in central New Jersey, Linda announced her own personal contribution to the barn renovation as a gift to this exciting effort, challenging the community to join her in this endeavor.

Congratulations, Linda! ♡

NJ Green Acres staff congratulate Linda: newly appointed Administrator Jay Watson, Deputy Administrator Dennis Davidson, Lisa Stern, Fawn McGee, and Sue Seyboldt

D&R Greenway Preserves Unique Rhododendron Garden

In early July, D&R Greenway partnered with Mercer County to preserve a unique property that represents another first for our organization. Fred Vahlsing oversaw the preservation, through an estate sale, of his uncle's world-class rhododendron collection on a 20-acre property in Washington Township, Mercer County with an added benefit: the property will be used by the local schools as a hands-on classroom for high school students.

Speaking of his family's motivation to sell the land for preservation, despite the fact that it is easily accessible from I-195 and highly developable, Fred explained, "Jo and Lee's labor of love will last forever." Fred was speaking of his aunt and uncle, Josephine and Leon Heuser, who owned the property for forty years while building the rhododendron collection that has become world-renown.

Leon Heuser was a chemist with the Squibb Company where he received the patent for filtering penicillin for commercial use, making it widely accessible as a medicine. In his forty-five years with Squibb, he traveled worldwide and received a total of sixteen patents. He retired in 1972 to his real love, the propagation and growing of rhododendrons.

In keeping with Leon Heuser's interests in education, the property will be used by the Upper Freehold School District as a workshop for their nationally recognized agricultural curriculum. High school students will benefit from an indoor facility with propagation benches to be located at the existing home on the property. A partnership with the American Rhododendron Society will provide students with expert advice on the management of the rhododendron collection. Trails will be open to the public on weekends.

Dr. Robert Connelly, Superintendent of the Upper Freehold Regional School District noted: "We see this as a great enhancement to our agricultural program. Because of this unique opportunity, we will be able to add four additional agricultural courses to our program, as well as enriching our science program."

New D&R Greenway Lands Preserved, January – July, 2002

The last six months have been extraordinarily busy at Delaware & Raritan Greenway with the completion of seven land transactions in central New Jersey.

More than 300 acres, valued at over $3,000,000, have been added to the permanently preserved open space in central New Jersey.

New D&R Greenway land preserved in 2002 includes:

- Close to twenty acres of deep woods habitat in the Sourland Mountains, a place critical for neotropical birds that migrate from Central America and depend on our woods as their breeding grounds;
- Sixty acres of fields and woodlands along Moore's Creek that creates a protected corridor connecting Hunterdon and Mercer counties;

- The final link in connecting Howell Living History Farm and Baldpate Mountain, the Birum property, protected in partnership with Mercer County, includes a Revolution-era farmhouse and the maple sugaring grove for the Farm;

- The world class Indian Run Rhododendron Nursery in Washington Twp., where a unique partnership will result in the creation of a hands-on classroom for high school students and schoolchildren;

- Another 100 acres of wetlands and woods that increases our Northern Stony Brook Preserve to over 1,360 acres;

- More than 80 acres of meadows and cedar woods along the Stony Brook at D&R Greenway's Cedar Ridge Preserve, a pioneer land preservation initiative of Walter Fullam and his family.

- Facilitated with Franklin Township 40 acres of fields and forests stretching from the D&R Canal in Griggstown to connect with other lands preserved by the township in the Bunker Hill area.

We invite you to hike D&R Greenway's trails at our Cedar Ridge Preserve located on Van Dyke Road in Hopewell, and at our Northern Stony Brook Preserve accessed from Mountain Road at the border of Hopewell and East Amwell townships. Enjoy the beauty of nature, and feel good about the legacy of land you are helping us to protect! ♡

Common Ground

Funds Needed to Complete Preservation Link on Rosedale Road

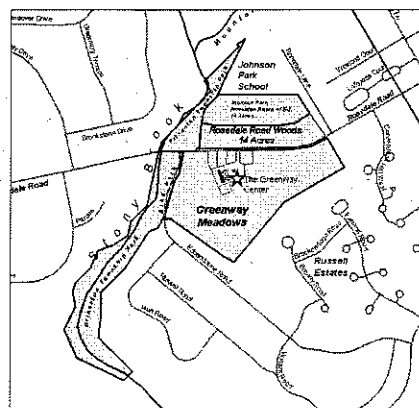

D&R Greenway, in partnership with Friends of Princeton Open Space, is seeking to close a gap of $121,000 to complete the preservation of the last of the Robert Wood Johnson estate lands on Rosedale Road in Princeton. The 14-acre woodland stream corridor provides the viewscape along Rosedale Road across from the new Princeton Township Park, Greenway Meadows.

Last year, D&R Greenway spearheaded a partnership with the state, county, Princeton Township and local citizens that resulted in the preservation of the sixty acres dedicated as Greenway Meadows. The remaining 14 acres directly across from the new park and next to Johnson Park School is now under threat of development unless we can raise the purchase price of $850,000 to protect this land forever.

The fourteen acres of land is heavily wooded with a mature canopy of large oaks, elms, maples and ash. It serves as a wildlife migration corridor and an undisturbed habitat for woodland species. Wildlife includes a variety of forest breeding birds such as ovenbirds and other warbler species, owls, woodpeckers and wild turkeys. This property also has several areas of wetlands and streams. Sloping gradually to the Stony Brook, it provides a woodland buffer protecting the lower Stony Brook watershed.

The property's immediate proximity to Johnson Park School will enable the school children to extend the nature trails into the woods behind the school building and to utilize the woods as an outdoor classroom. The land also connects directly with the public bike trail along the Stony Brook. With preservation, the property will expand the Stony Brook Greenway, protect water quality and biodiversity and provide environmental education and passive recreation opportunities.

Commitments for major funding are already in place from the NJ Green Acres Program and Mercer County. The Walk for Open Space, organized by Princeton Day School's environmental club, raised $12,000 that will be matched by D&R Greenway for the preservation of the 14 acres. What remains is a $121,000 gap.

Our deadline for raising funds is September 15. The preservation of this land offers many benefits including: protecting our environment and water; creating nature education opportunities for our children; and providing passive recreation for us all.

If you would like to participate in this effort, please call Carol Christofferson at 609-924-4646. We need your help now. ♡

Carpe Diem:

D&R Greenway Supporters Seize the Day for a Wonderful Gala Kick-off Celebration

June 9 was a wonderful day for Delaware & Raritan Greenway and our many benefactors. The sun shone down on a beautiful setting at the Chauncey Conference Center at ETS in Princeton. As close to 300 supporters enjoyed a lovely reception under the trees, the prestigious Donald B. Jones Conservation Award was presented to Pam Mount, former Mayor and current Deputy Mayor of Lawrence Township. And, perhaps most spectacular of all, the event raised over $132,000 to support D&R Greenway's land preservation efforts.

Van Zandt Williams, recently retired Vice President of Development of Princeton University, was this year's Honorary Chair of the Gala Kick-off Event. Carpe Diem was the theme of his remarks, as he spoke of the important role D&R Greenway plays in enhancing the quality of life in our communities by preserving open space for everyone's benefit. Executive Director Linda Mead highlighted D&R Greenway's record-breaking year in 2001, with 1,226 acres preserved and 14 properties protected. She noted the importance of both proactive planning and collaborative partnerships as factors that enable D&R Greenway to move quickly to protect endangered land.

As an example, Linda mentioned the recently preserved 183-acre Carson Road Woods property in Lawrence Township. Linda noted that just one year ago, immediately after the 2001 Gala Kick-off event, the first meeting of the coalition to preserve Carson Road Woods was held. Six short weeks later, the funds were raised and the land was protected. Carpe Diem indeed!

The high point of the day was the presentation of the Donald B. Jones Conservation Award by Chuck Hartman, D&R Greenway board chair, to Pam Mount. Chuck cited Pam's tireless efforts to preserve Carson Road Woods, spearheading the coalition of private, public, and corporate partners, with D&R Greenway facilitating the fundraising. Accepting the award, Pam spoke of her personal commitment to protecting land and the environment. She acknowledged the unique contribution that D&R Greenway's expert and dedicated staff makes to the technical aspects of land conservation and preservation. Pam complimented D&R Greenway's ability to create innovative solutions, bringing together partnerships and combining funding resources in ways that individual municipalities and grassroots organizations are not able to do on their own.

the silent auction. Original art created and donated by leading local artists and, for the first time, a custom-designed canoe called "The Greenway Model" donated by Paint Island Canoe and Kayak, were all on exhibit in the garden, ready for some friendly, competitive bidding. Sophie also urged all guests to "seize the moment" to sign-up for many of the wonderful Galas scheduled throughout the year.

D&R Greenway would like to thank ETS in Princeton, who generously hosted our event, and to Eleanor Horne, ETS Executive Vice President, and Board member of D&R Greenway, for her extraordinary support for open space in central New Jersey.

Save the date: next year's event will be held the weekend of June 8. We hope to see you there. ♡

How We Say THANK YOU to our Donors

Delaware & Raritan Greenway relies on contributions from you to support our efforts to preserve and protect open space in central New Jersey. Because every dollar earmarked for land acquisition goes directly toward purchase, without your contributions we could not support our professional staff, who are critical to negotiating and executing our land preservation successes. Publicly acknowledging the extraordinary generosity we enjoy from you is very important to us.

Starting with this issue of Greenways, our donors' names will be published within the time frame of gifts received since the previous newsletter and then again at the end of the year in our annual donor report. This will allow us to publicly THANK YOU in a more timely fashion.

For general operations, Delaware & Raritan Greenway presents three major fund raising requests a year:

- The Annual Appeal comes to all of you in the form of a letter and reports our successful land transactions for the year. It is mailed in mid-November.

- The Spring Appeal comes as a letter and reports more details and information about our on-going efforts to preserve land. It is mailed in mid-June.

- The Good Time Galas for the Greenway requests are mailed in mid-March to both our corporate and individual supporters. These gifts support our June 9 Kickoff event, the Donald B. Jones Award, introduction of the 14 fundraising Galas for the year AND primarily our costs to continue preserving land in central New Jersey.

THANK YOU for helping keep central New Jersey green and healthy for you and your children. ♣

Delaware & Raritan Greenway Benefits from PDS's Walk for Open Space

Three hundred people participated in the First Annual Walk for Open Space organized by Princeton Day School's EnAct (Environmental Action) Club. D&R Greenway was one of five beneficiaries of the Walk, conceived and run entirely by high school students.

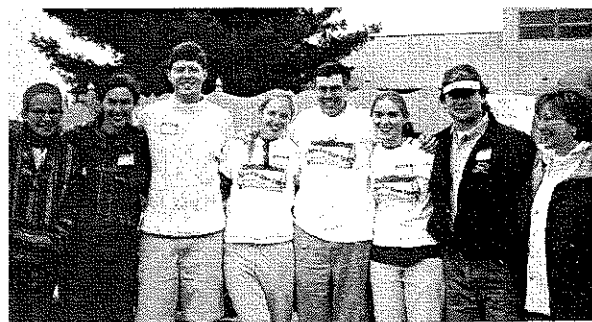

Delaware & Raritan Greenway received almost $12,000 in support of its land preservation efforts in central New Jersey. These generous contributions will support the protection of fourteen acres of woodland along Rosedale Road linking Johnson Park School with Greenway Meadows.

These funds will be matched by a generous supporter of D&R Greenway, bringing a total of almost $25,000 to the purchase of the fourteen acres.

Liz Cutler, faculty advisor for The EnAct Club said that the organization, fundraising, publicity, and logistics for the Walk were accomplished solely by the students. "Planting seeds for skills needed by our future environmental advocates is a major goal for members of The EnAct Club," she said.

In recognition of PDS's extraordinary student involvement and support of open space in central New Jersey, including Coventry Farm, Linda Mead presented The EnAct Club with a plaque honoring their achievements, "When you return for an alumni/ae weekend 50 years from now, you will be able to point with pride at the beautiful places your actions helped preserve." On behalf of D&R Greenway, Linda also recognized the Board of Trustees of PDS for their role in preserving Coventry Farm in 2001. 🍁
